Subject Librarian Contributions to Student Learning and Success

Introduction

During Spring Semester 2014, the Pius and Medical Center Libraries Assessment Committee conducted a study of Saint Louis University's undergraduate and graduate students about their awareness of subject librarians and their roles, their use of services provided by subject librarians, and the effectiveness and impact of those services. The study consisted of an online survey closely followed by a series of focus groups. The findings of the study will be used to help guide the development of initiatives to increase awareness and use of subject librarian services by the student population.

Those referred to collectively in the study as “subject librarians” are known within their respective libraries as research and instruction librarians, liaison librarians, special collections librarians, and archivists. Research and instruction librarians at Pius Library and liaison librarians at MCL serve as “go-to” library resources for their respective academic, departmental faculty and students. Special collections librarians and archivists do not have academic unit assignments, but instead provide expertise to any faculty and students who engage with manuscripts, rare books, or archival collections. All subject librarians also provide research consultation services to faculty and students, offer instructional support for courses, and provide expertise in the use of the library's resources and collections. Appendix A lists the subject librarians for each library, their academic credentials, and their associated subject areas.

This initiative follows a 2013 report on collections usage and expenditures and a 2014 report on subject librarian contributions to faculty teaching and research, based on a survey of faculty in 2013. All three projects were undertaken at the request of the Dean of Libraries.

Method

A twelve-question online student survey was open during the last two weeks of March 2014 and completed by 1,185 undergraduate and graduate students (see Appendix B). As a follow-up to the survey, between April 15–24, 2014, library staff and faculty conducted five focus groups in which thirty-six undergraduate and graduate students were asked six questions (see Appendix C). Four of these focus groups were held at Pius Library and one at the Medical Center Library. Student participants for both the online survey and focus groups were recruited through email, pop-up windows on library computers, social media, and signs in the library and around campus. The chance to win a gift certificate to a restaurant was provided as incentive to complete the online survey, and the availability of free food provided an incentive to attend the focus groups.

Findings: Online Survey

The questions in the online survey were designed to elicit a broad picture of students' awareness of subject librarians and use of their services, the reasons they used those services, and the effectiveness of the interactions. See Appendix B for the complete survey and results.

Students were asked about their awareness of the existence of designated subject librarians in Question 5. The rating scale in Question 10 also collected data on their awareness of eight service categories.

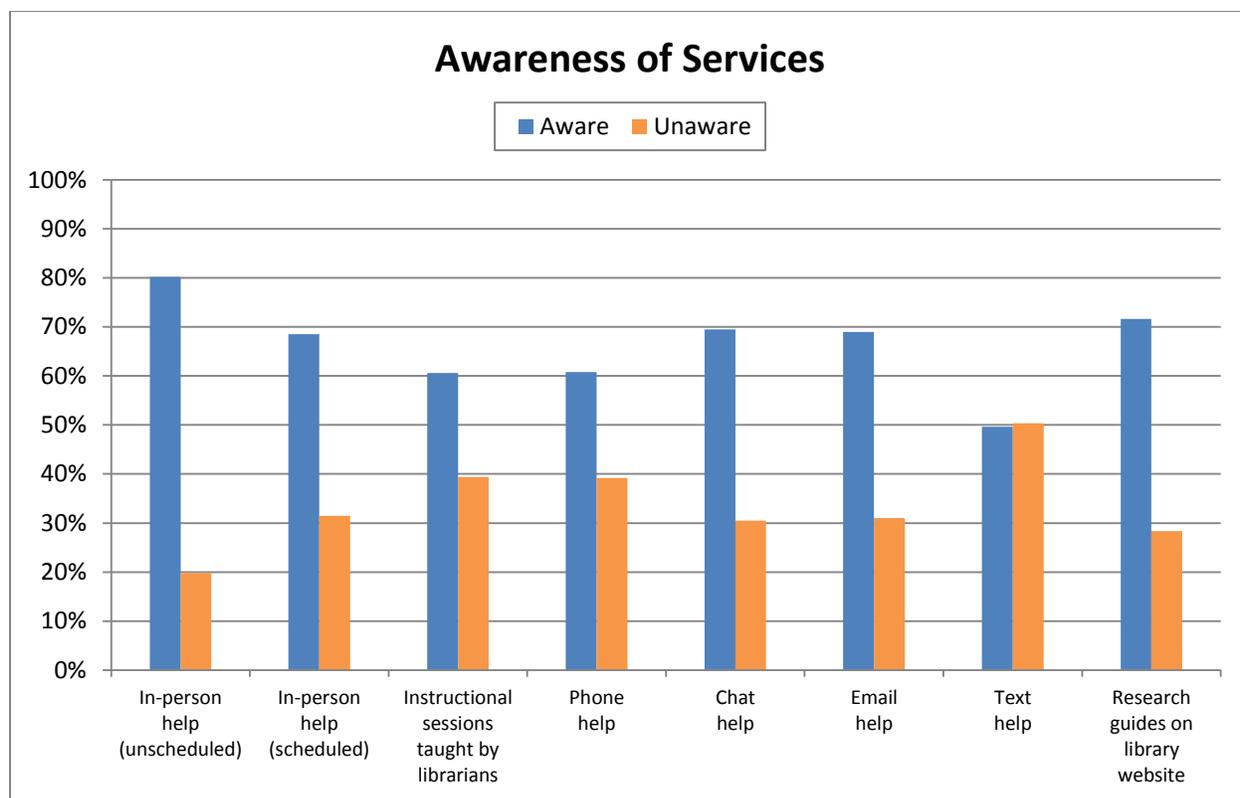

Questions about the libraries' facilities and website (3–4) were designed to show student use of subject librarians' services in the context of other kinds of library use such as studying, using collections, using computing equipment, etc. Students were asked directly whether they had ever worked with a librarian on a paper or course project in Question 7, and a breakdown of the use of eight service categories was gained from the same rating scale (Question 10) that gathered data on awareness. In order to determine the reasons for students' use of librarians' services, the survey asked whether an instructor ever suggested they meet with a librarian (Question 6). It then determined how many students consulted with a librarian on a paper or project and asked what prompted them to do so (Questions 7, 9). Cross-tabulation of Questions 6 and 7 revealed precise data on the relationship between an instructor referral and the probability of the student consulting a librarian. A follow-up question on whether working with a librarian improved the quality of their paper or project (Question 8) gathered data on perceived effectiveness, as did the rating scale of Question 10.

Following is a breakdown of the most important points gleaned on the awareness, use, and effectiveness of subject librarians' services for students.

Awareness of Services

- Almost half (46%) of student respondents knew that each academic department has a designated subject librarian. This falls short of the 85% of faculty who responded to the same question in our 2013 survey of faculty.
- Student awareness of the eight service categories ranged from 50%–80%.

Use of Services

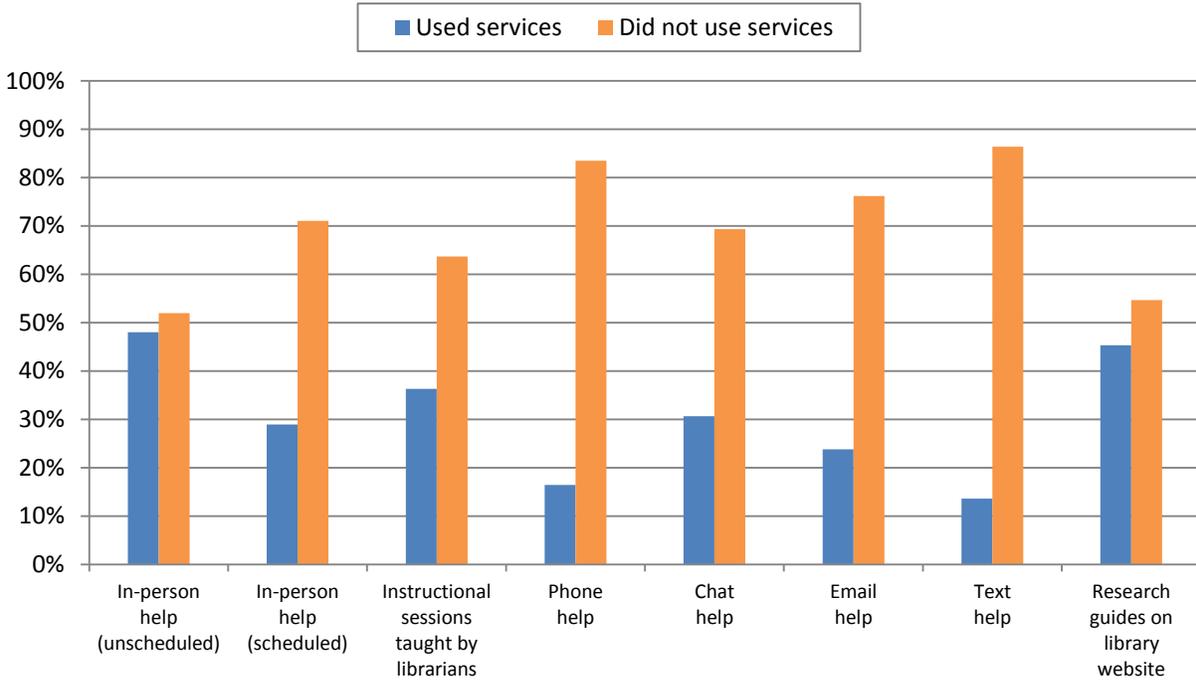

Context of Use

- Fewer students reported visiting the library to use librarians' services (14%–18%) than to study (71%–86%), use the libraries' collections and resources (56%–60%), or use computers, printers, or scanners (22%–57%).
- Fewer students reported using the libraries' websites to get help from a librarian (17%–20%) than to find a book or article (73%–88%), submit an interlibrary loan request (38%), or renew a book (35%).
- More students sought individualized help through the libraries' website than did so in the library (234 vs. 185).

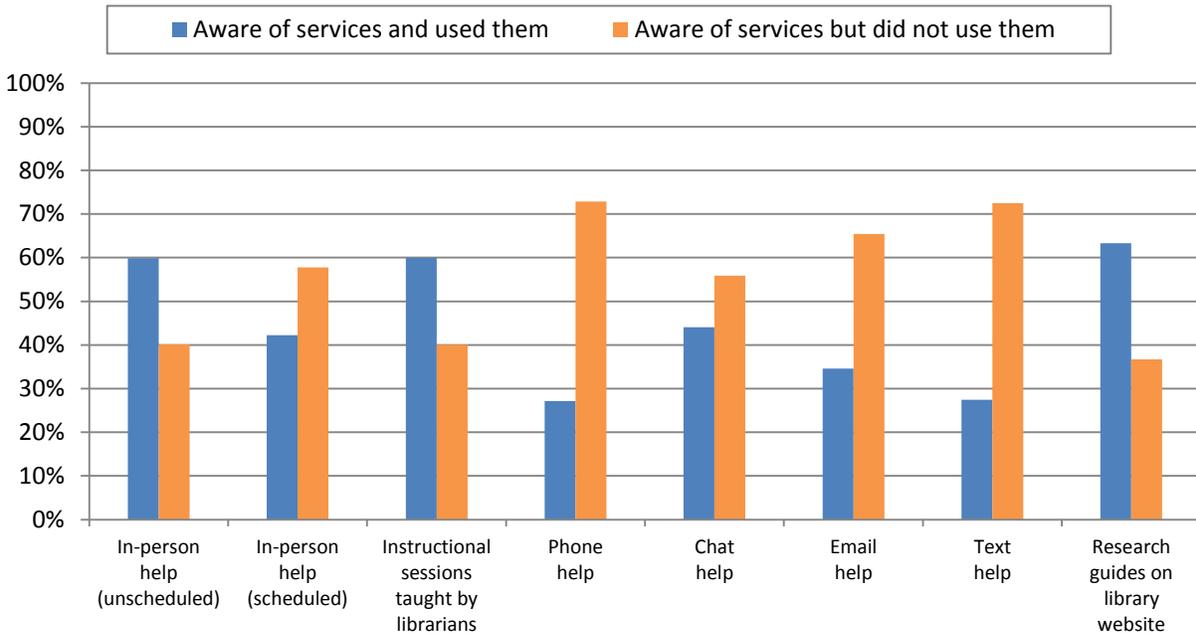

Degree of Use

- 28% of students reported working with a librarian on a paper or course project.
- For all eight service categories, "Never used" – whether aware or unaware – received the majority of responses (52%–86%).
- In four of the eight service categories, the highest number of responses was "Never used (aware of service)". The 4 services: in-person help, scheduled, phone help, Chat help, email help.
- For the eight service categories surveyed, 37%–73% of students who were aware of them did not use them.

Total Use vs. Non-Use of Services

Use vs. Non-Use of Services in the Context of Awareness

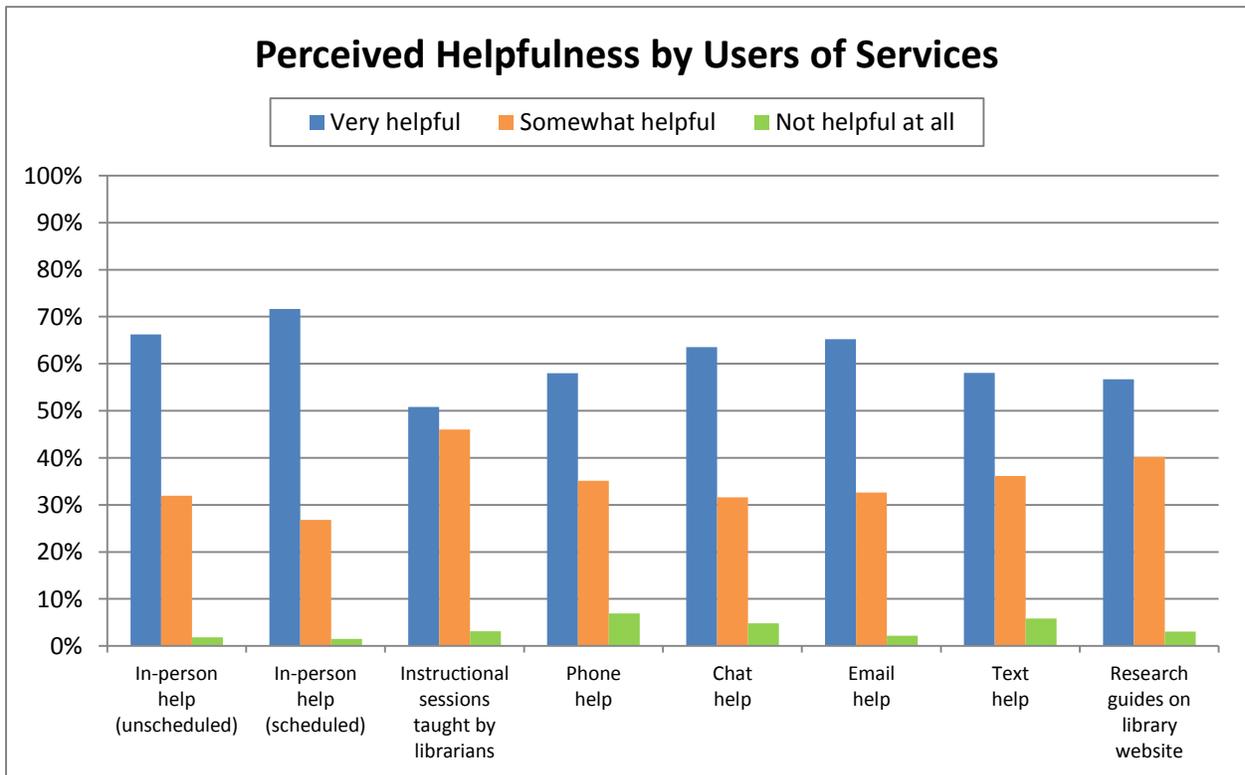

Reasons for Use

- 53% of students said an instructor suggested they meet with a librarian.
- 28% of students reported having worked with a librarian on a paper or course project. Of those who recorded their motivation(s) to consult a librarian, 64% did so because of a referral from an instructor, 36% made the decision on their own, 12% clicked on the “Ask a Librarian” button on the website, 8% had a recommendation from another student, and 6% received a referral from someone at a library help desk. (Multiple selections were allowed.)
- Of students who received a referral by an instructor, 45% consulted a librarian at some point. Of students who were not referred by an instructor, only 9% ever consulted a librarian. Students who received a referral from an instructor were five times more likely to consult a librarian.

Perceived Helpfulness of Services

- Of the 28% of respondents who said they worked with a librarian on a paper or course project, 91% believed that working with a librarian improved the quality of the paper or project.
- Of the 14%–48% of students who used the various subject librarian services, 93%–98% found them either somewhat helpful or very helpful.

Findings: Focus Groups

The thirty-six focus group participants were asked about their familiarity with, experience with, and perceived usefulness of a variety of subject librarian services including individual help, group/class meetings, and research guides. They were also asked what motivated them to contact a subject librarian (which also revealed some reasons they do not contact subject librarians) as well as how the libraries can best communicate their services. A final open-ended question asked if they had any other advice for the libraries. See Appendix C for focus group questions asked.

Fourteen out of thirty-six participants (39%) reported a general positive experience (no context or specifics given) with subject librarian services.

Individual help

When asked about individual help (including unscheduled in-person help, scheduled in-person help, phone, chat using “Ask a Librarian” button, email, or text), twelve participants reported having a positive experience (“I was in a history course and everyone in Special Collections was very helpful. It was drop-in help and they were very accommodating”), while twelve others reported simply having some awareness or experience with no valuation given. Seven participants reported positive experience with chat service in particular. “I was impressed. It was almost instantaneous.” Four additional students indicated awareness of chat service or having some experience with it with no valuation given. Several students seemed unsure of the available hours for chat (“[It would be helpful to know] what the hours for the library chat are so I could plan ahead when I’m going to ask someone a question; I’d mostly need after normal hours, whether in or outside the library”), and one suggested using Facebook Chat in addition to or instead of what we currently use “because I like the interface better and would not have to go to the library website.”

Group or class meetings

Sixteen participants reported having some experience with group or class meetings with a subject librarian, and twelve of those indicated having a specifically positive experience. None indicated having a specifically negative experience.

- “I think I use something I learned from him nearly every day in my research.”
- “It made perfect sense to have [her] come in. [She] had a PowerPoint handout that I still have and use.”
- “It provided the skills we needed...I thought it was appropriate.”

Several students expressed the desire for more targeted and specific class meetings with subject librarians, and several expressed they felt there was too much repetition of basic instruction sessions. “I’ve done it [basic class instruction by a librarian about databases and electronic resources] three times so it’s kind of repetitive.”

Research guides

Eighteen participants (50%) indicated that they were not aware of the existence of research guides, while fourteen participants noted that they were aware of research guides but did not indicate if they used them or not. Eight students reported a positive experience with research guides.

- "[Research guides] are very helpful, particularly for the annotations that tell you what sources are good at and what they aren't."
- "I use [a research guide] every time I start a paper or I'm doing other research and getting stuck. I use them at least once a month and probably more."

Six students said they had not used or would not use research guides for a variety of reasons. "I wouldn't use this. If I wanted information I would go to textbooks, Google, and PubMed."

Eight participants reported negative or frustrating experiences with using research guides or difficulty in finding them on the website. "I stumbled onto one of the research guides. I was really impressed, but I didn't know how to use it. It's a little bit confusing."

Motivation to contact a subject librarian

When asked what did or would motivate them to contact a subject librarian, the most common answers included needing to find sources, especially when having trouble finding them on their own in the early stages of research, or when researching an unfamiliar subject. "I would contact a subject librarian if I was not familiar with a new subject I was researching or with a particular source I needed but couldn't find."

Several students also mentioned they were likely to contact a subject librarian when experiencing general frustration with their own efforts and all other avenues have been tried, to the point of "utter despair and not finding anything."

Others indicated they were likely to contact a subject librarian when they have trouble accessing databases, especially from off-campus.

Reasons a subject librarian not contacted

Something unexpected that grew out of follow-ups to the previous question was a discussion of some of the reasons students do not contact a subject librarian.

The primary reason seemed to be a strong desire to find information on their own.

- "I feel like I need to 'fight through' issues like this myself. I was only required once by a class to enlist help from a librarian and it felt like cheating, like I was cheating myself somehow."
- "[It's] more like a pride thing; I just try to push through."
- "I'm a Ph.D student. It's my problem if I can't find something."

Some students seem to simply be satisfied with what they are able to find on Google/Google Scholar, and others perceive it to be a hassle to contact a subject librarian.

There also seems to be a perceived non-availability of subject librarians, especially outside of regular business hours.

- “The time when I would most need to see a librarian is at 4 am the day before the paper is due, when I’d realize I was in trouble and would most need help finding a source.”
- “I’d mostly need them after normal hours, whether in or outside the library.”

Some will ask for help only if help is needed in a subject outside of their main area of study. They tend to stay within their department (instructors, fellow students) for subject expertise in their main area of study.

Other reasons mentioned include a perceived lack of time (i.e., the student is working on a paper at the last minute), general confusion about subject librarian services, and reluctance due to fear of not having a formal enough question or that the question is not important enough to bother a subject librarian. “I do as much as I can on my own so that I don’t bother the librarian. I would be more comfortable asking a friend for help because it’s less formal.”

Several students indicated, in a variety of ways, that if subject librarians were more visible and recognizable, they would be more likely to ask them for help. Some relevant comments included: “librarians are scattered all over the building,” “[it’s a] hassle to contact [subject librarians],” and “subject librarians need to be more visible.” Several of the marketing suggestions students provided related to this as well, including: a readily available pictorial directory of subject librarians with office locations and contact information; subject librarians featured on signage, in display cases, on the website, on the iCommons computer screens, on display screens within the library and elsewhere on campus, and on social media.

Implications

Significant trends, patterns, and practical implications emerged from survey data and focus group contributions about the subject librarian services offered, their quality and impact, and the respondents’ levels of awareness and use of them.

Quality and Impact of Services

Subject librarians are delivering effective services to students on all fronts. All eight of the service categories surveyed were rated as helpful by 93%–98% of those who used them.

Students who consult librarians report better academic outcomes. Of those who said they worked with a librarian on a paper or course project, 91% believed that working with a librarian improved the quality of the paper or project.

By helping students achieve better academic outcomes, librarians contribute to higher student satisfaction and retention. Results of a University-wide study on undergraduate student satisfaction and retention indicate that both faculty support and student learning (including intellectual growth and improving academic skills) are two of the most important predictors of student satisfaction. Furthermore, of all the factors affecting student retention, academic performance is shown to have the biggest impact. [SLU Retention Analysis, 11/18/11 and Undergraduate Student Satisfaction at SLU, August 2014 [Draft], published by the SLU Office of Institutional Research]

Awareness and Use of Services

Overall non-use of services is very high. The rates of non-use of the eight service categories surveyed range from 52%–86%, with a mean of 70%. A sizeable majority of students do not use subject librarians' services.

Some students do not use services because they are unaware of them. While a majority of respondents indicated awareness of the eight service categories surveyed, 20%–50% did not. Those students should be the focus of outreach efforts.

Some students do not use services despite being aware of them. 37%–73% of respondents were aware of the eight service categories surveyed but did not use them, indicating that there may be preconceptions or prejudices that need to be overcome through special efforts in marketing and promotion.

By far, the most effective “driver of business” for consultations is the instructor referral. Students whose instructor suggested they meet with a librarian were five times more likely to do so than students who did not receive such a suggestion. Survey comments indicate that a meeting was sometimes required by the instructor, and other times recommended. Encouraging such referrals by instructors could be a crucial step toward increasing student use of subject librarian services.

Future Actions

With respondents expressing strong approval of the quality and impact of subject librarians' services, the clear target of future action to emerge from the survey and focus group results is the high proportion of students unaware of or simply not making use of those services. The Assessment Committee recommends that subject librarians in the Medical Center Library, Special Collections, Archives and Record Management, and Research and Instruction Services Departments continue to work together to form a comprehensive strategy for promotion of their services. Following are proposed goals and methods of implementation for continuing to develop such a strategy.

Goals

- Intensify the promotion of the full range of subject librarians' services to students.
- Further cultivate relationships with instructors and make them aware that they are the most important factor in getting students to visit a subject librarian.
- Emphasize the apparent link between use of subject librarians' services and improved academic outcomes.

Implementation

- Formulate a marketing campaign with slogans emphasizing the improved academic outcomes of students who use subject librarians' services.
- Intensify the marketing of services in the following ways:*

 - Virtual: email; expanded social media presence and involvement
 - Print: flyers, mailings, printed directories of subject librarians
 - In person: instructional sessions; resource fairs; freshman orientation
 - Website: redesigned to emphasize and clarify services; improve findability of research guides; improve access to subject librarian directory
 - Library signage

- Increase visibility of subject librarians in the libraries.
- Encourage library staff and student workers at library service points to promote subject librarians' services.
- Work with faculty to increase integration of librarian contact information into course materials.
- Encourage faculty to recommend student consultations with subject librarians as part of the research process for their students.
- Strengthen efforts to work with faculty to integrate library instruction into the curriculum more systematically.
- Consider adopting the following "student-friendly" library policies:
 - Expand and clarify chat hours
 - Expand library's open hours on weekends
 - Create more group study areas
 - Offer social events for students or targeted workshops and training on specific library topics

* Steps taken to date include adding and updating subject librarians' profiles for the website, creating photo directories of librarians for service desks, sending informational postcards to faculty, and making subject librarians' business cards available in academic departments.

1	The subject librarian taught me how to successfully use search engines online to find research articles.
2	The librarians have done a good job of showing me which research guides to use for certain subjects and how to search efficiently in each guide.
3	The 'ask a librarian' button really has helped me!
4	the chat option is extremely useful and convenient.
5	The online chat help is such a great tool. It's online and almost always available. It's great! I do wish I knew more about how to meet with/utilize specific department librarians.
6	I love the English department's guides, they have really helped me find articles for research papers!
7	It provides a nice atmosphere for focus
8	Great job on what you do!
9	when I have used the services, they have been very helpful with papers. I also enjoy the changing exhibits for a quick study break.
10	I wish I knew more about the services offered by librarians. I had never heard of many of the services available.
11	As an Aquinas Student, the PIUS Library team is invaluable to me. Of particular mention, Tony, Martha, Denaye, Georgia and student workers Molly and Sharaia. I would not be as successful in my academic studies were it not for the Pius Library Team. Thanks to them for the expediency, compassion, and scholarly presence in the true spirit of the Jesuit Mission. / Donna M. Branca, MSW, ACSW, BCD, LCSW
12	My professor told me something quick about this last week, but prior to his comment I didn't even know that librarians were here to help us in these ways.
13	The library guides for theology are very helpful. I wish they would be expanded even further.
14	None
15	I have always found SLU librarians to be very helpful! Most of my experience is at the Medical Center Library, and there every librarian is always willing to help you or answer your questions. I've asked librarians at the Medical Center Library to help me find textbook and materials we are using in classes, and each librarian has always been helpful and kind!
16	The chat help would be a very convenient tool for students to use but I don't think students are aware of it so that needs to be conveyed more.
17	the chat button is really cool. I haven't tried the text option. I might try, but cell service is really spotty and it's hard to get texts/

19	I love using the chat help. It is super-convenient.
20	Unbelievable services.
21	N/A
22	The Chat Help option via "Ask the Librarian" was very efficient and helpful, but I would prefer meeting with someone in person at the library for help.
23	It was great in person.

24	This is coming from not only me, but many others whom I have spoken with. We feel that it would be very helpful if the library were open 24 hours all week, or at least open longer on Fridays and Saturdays. It seems silly to shut down the library so early on these weekend days, when the campus is more rowdy. It would be nice to have a place to go study especially for students who live in residence halls such as Griesdieck that do not have study rooms or quiet places to study. I appreciate your consideration.
25	Sometimes the employees in the Library at the two front desks and by the printers on the first floor can seem a little distracted by the work/homework they are doing.
26	Sometimes its a little difficult to navigate but overall the resources are very helpful
27	I wish I had used some of these services.
28	I think it is very helpful to have librarians available for assistance. I personally have never had a need for the available services.
29	All encounters with librarians have been quite positive. Librarians have always seemed willing to help.
30	The instructional sessions were very useful and easy to follow/understand. I also use the research guides on the library website a lot since I have had to write many research papers over the past 3 years and these make it very easy to find what I am looking for.
31	N/A
32	Most of the librarians are very friendly and will go to lengths to help you with whatever you need.
33	Love the Research Guide! It is a bookmark on my computer that I use often.
34	They were very helpful and considerate.
35	I walked in to ask where to find dated periodicals and I was surprised to see someone invite me back behind their desk and offer me assistance on where to locate the microfilms and provide directions on finding the lab that allows me to use them.
36	Student workers get irritated when you ask for help.
37	I experience nice and fast service from library loan system and when I request for some article. Clearly describe and help me get whatever I need.
38	I didn't know about a lot of the services, but I think that they are all great. I have never really thought to ask for help from a librarian, but I would think it would be very helpful. I guess right now I don't have many papers/projects to work on.
39	It was very helpful to understand how to conduct research using the library website.
40	I was not aware of these services by librarians. I would like to know more about these resources.
41	I am a person that enjoys physically entering library and getting tutorials and hands on assistance
42	In-person interactions were friendly and pointed me in the right direction, research-wise.
43	I love the ability to chat online with a research librarian. So helpful!
44	Please better advertise the services. I would use them if I knew more about them! Maybe set up an area by an entrance with a board to showcase all of the library services.
45	All of my interactions with SLU librarians and library services have been quality.
46	It would be awesome to have descriptions of the various online databases that SLU has access to, rather than just links to them. I've sort of gotten to know a few databases well over the last four years, and I stick pretty closely to those unless they can't meet my research needs. It would be helpful to know what sorts of articles the other databases offer, what their concentration/specialty is, etc., without having to wander around the site until I figure it out. Thanks!
47	I Really appreciate ILLIAD service. They work very effective and fast. All staff is kindness. / I also appreciate Ms. Mary Krieger help. She is very kindness and prompt to help me every times. Since I am a research assistant, I need to meet with her for consulting about how to search article in a paucity area for my professors who I work with.

48	The library website is really easy to navigate and has helped me out multiple times.
49	librarians are very helpful
50	doin good
51	The librarian was very helpful in explaining where to find information in the library and how to access articles that were not at SLU.
52	Ask a Librarian was a quick and easy way to get help researching for a project!
53	Ron Crown has taught sessions for three different classes I have attended, and I use something I learned from him every day in my research.
54	I am liking that you now have clinical key in addition to accessmedicine.
55	Everyone is great. EXCEPT, there is this caucasian guy in his 40s who works at the checkout desk, and he's a bit unhelpful Once for example, you had a huge book baglog, and this book I wanted was missing from the shelves, and he didn't even offer to let me come look behind the desk at the backlog of books. He just said "well, come back next week when the staff is back and then I bet the book will no longer be missing."
56	I really like the writing services, my abilities in writing papers have improved significantly.
57
58	we went to visit the library to explore our research options and the librarian's knowledge was very helpful
59	N/A
60	Every time I've tried to look something up or find something it's always been super easy and helpful
61	I have reached out for librarian help for projects, papers, and other online class activities. I was treated rudely - as though I were wasting the librarian's time. Emails were condescending, at best. / It was worth it to enroll in a course at a different institution and use their library for any SLU related work. / I am disappointed with the support and treatment of online students by SLU faculty and staff. Online students get recruited but then are not supported and are treated like second-class scholars. The impression is, "Pay your bill and shut up."
62	I think they need to be more involved, I really don't know much about the library/librarians.
63	quick timely manner
64	In-person help has been hit-or-miss responses when I have tried. One librarian explained how to find online resources but did it so that I felt dumb asking a question. However, I have had great experiences with other librarians that went above and beyond to help me find books or answer my questions.
65	Workers were friendly
66	There needs to be more study rooms. They are always taken and it makes it difficult to study with other people when there is no where to meet.
67	I thought that they were very helpful in the context of finding reference books about a certain research topic/subject
68	I never received a response from the librarian when I sent an email. I waited a couple of days and decided the best course of action was to go to the library. I tried using the chat session and no one responded.
69	This information is not really advertised well, and I have never heard of most of these features.
70	n/a
71	I find the "Ask a Librarian" button to be a quick tool when I have a quick question about a research problem.

72	I find all my articles on the online library and it's very precise and helpful!
73	Never used
74	The services I received the librarians were very helpful and friendly.
75	I am always happy, especially with ILL help.
76	Since I wasn't aware of any of these services I suggest increase marketing to students to make them aware of these services
77	I enjoy the online services offered by the library. It helps me to save time by giving me the opportunity to search on line first.
78	I like the research guides on the website. They are useful and simple to use.
79	The research guides made by the historian librarian helped immensely in finding primary sources material for my paper.
80	met with a librarian to help me improve my research on databases. it was very helpful but felt like she was very strict about it and not a fun learning experience
81	No opinion.
82	All the librarians seem as if they are very open to help. However, I have not utilized them very much
83	The two main times I have reached out to librarians were / 1) I needed help finding rules for obscure citations - had to contact a few people to find the right person, but it was worth it to get the help I needed. / 2) I scheduled a meeting with my reference librarian for guidance with appropriate search terms to conduct a literature review. Very comforting to have this expertise help.
84	Everything works well for me. I am only taking one class, and also use the library regularly for personal use.
85	mostly good things
86	I was not even aware that most of these services were available! I will need to look into them more...
87	Chatting librarians is very helpful and convenient.
88	I requested help from a library employee when I was having difficulty finding articles for a project. Her name was Miriam Joseph and she was extremely helpful. I remembered her because I later found out that she happened to be my department consultant. She was friendly and very knowledgeable and help me learn more about the library's resources. I have also sought help from the help desk employees when having difficulty with the printer and scanner and they have always been very helpful and friendly.
89	The times I sought assistance I was pleased with the level of assistance I received.
90	Writing services in the library are very helpful. Also, I have had friends that say the librarians are very knowledgeable of the resources within the library.
91	I just had never thought to ask a librarian... Maybe it needs to be advertised more.
92	I am a staff member who is working toward a graduate degree, so I don't really need that much help from librarians, but when I do need a book for class or a project, they are always very helpful! I usually go in person before my 6pm class.
93	I did not know most of these were a thing.
94	n/a
95	The research guides are helpful, but would be more so if they gave more information on what to do besides the obvious first-attempt searches.
96	I always have a positive experience with the library.
97	I like the current structure of being able to access assistance when needed.
98	I have gone to Pius before just to ask for some help and the librarians were all very helpful.

99	Very useful resource that I use often
100	N/A
101	It was fine
102	The full services of competent librarians could be better publicized
103	I'm interested about instructional sessions taught by librarians, but I don't know anything about them.
104	databases are great
105	The ask a librarian is a helpful tool. I just really haven't needed the services of a librarian
106	I never have used these services, but it's great that so many options are available!
107	I did not know that there were librarians to use to such an extent
108	The librarians are all very approachable and enjoyable to talk with, an awesome experience overall!
109	The librarian was able to tell me which databases to use to find an article on my topic. She didn't help me find specific articles but overall was very helpful.
110	I would like to have the chat function be available more often.
111	Love this library. It's great
112	It would be nice to have access to more scientific journals. The Interlibrary Loan works well, but it would just be nice to have access to more journals without necessarily having to use that almost every time.
113	I think the chat with a librarian feature is great, but I didn't know I could work with a subject librarian. Making this feature more apparent in chat would be nice!
114	I have had positive experiences with all the interactions I have had with the librarians at both the Pius and Med library. I think they do an excellent job of explaining how to find different resources, especially online in the computer-based world we live in. I hope they continue to support students like they have in the past. They are like secondary teachers, but easier to talk to at times.
115	n/a
116	I really like the "Ask a Librarian" button - it's been very helpful!
117	None
118	Library is very nice I like it.
119	i like being able to be texted the info for a book i need to check out.
120	The librarians seem very nice and helpful. I found their instructions quite useful.
121	I have not used most of these resources and if I have it is because we were brought to them during class by a professor.
122	You guys should market the ability for librarians to help more!
123	The librarian was very helpful and went through what I needed step by step, and made sure I got all the information I needed from our session together.
125	I suggest offering library events in the evening. I have missed great events because they were offered in the morning/afternoon while I was at work.
127	I am a junior and a disabled student, the librarian and the services help me understand my papers and my subjects in my classes.
128	na
129	I have only ever used a librarians help when required by a teacher for a paper or project. I don't know what instructional sessions are, but they sound kind of interesting. / / I go to the library a lot and there seems like there is always a lot of help whether scheduled or not but I have never really had the need to use these resources. / /

130	I love how eager the librarians are to help me. I have used email, text, and ask a librarian help before and I will continue to do so! Librarians are one of the greatest untapped resources on campus.
131	The library is a fantastic resource for completing research, however, I have noticed on more than one occasion that books are missing as in not shelved correctly and/or showing as in the library but actually not present. I don't know if the books were smuggled out or what but I find it difficult to complete some research when I have to hunt down resources. The online reserve function is also a fantastic function, however, sometimes it takes way too long to get a book pulled. 3-5 days for it to be accessed is not helpful when, after waiting for a book to be returned to the library, to receive notice that it is finally there.
132	Our subject library is awesome (Dr. Joseph), but no one else has ever been helpful there.
133	Why is the second floor quiet study room always so cold? The second floor men's bathroom also has cockroaches at night.
134	never used
135	I love getting help from research librarians on long-term papers and projects, they are especially valuable when finding relevant resources.
136	The librarians are always courteous, eager to assist and truly invaluable in the wisdom and expertise they provide.
137	I am a graduate student. The instructional session I attended "taught" me how to use the library's databases. I have literally been doing that since I was in high school. It was easily the least constructive use of 1.5-2 hours during that entire semester of classes. This assistance might be useful for people who don't understand technology, but in my class, that was possibly 2 people of around 20. Is there some way to pre-assess knowledge or something to ensure that repetitive information is not given? I actually was interested to learn about the research guides on the library's website, though again, that was really should as simple as "here's a link" for most people in that class.
138	N/A
139	n/a
140	I had a librarian come in to one of my English classes to give us a tutorial about the functions of the online databases and the overall uses of the library and it was very helpful for me. This is how I found out about all the things that the library offers and where and how to seek my resources.
141	Of the services I have used, I am satisfied at the quality of service. / / Also, I realize this is not listed above, but I very much dislike Argo Tea. I've found that the workers are disorganized, slow, and the quality of the drinks is not very good. Many of my friends agree that a service more like The Bean or a Starbucks would be a better fit, as there is big opportunity for sales at the library that Argo Tea simply is not fulfilling.
142	There needs to be more effort to publicize the services offered by the library. I was unaware of most of the services.
143	I wish these services were simply more advertised. I wouldn't know where to begin if I needed help.
144	Students will come into the library looking for a book an instructor told them about but are unaware of either name, author, etc. The reference librarians are super helpful if I can't help the student find a book. They not only help to the student find the book but also relay helpful advice to me so I can find it the next time too.
145	I've had to ask the librarian about certain items I wasn't quite sure about since I'm a grad student... items that my students were trying to pull fast ones over on me like printing in the library, and they have been so helpful so I can go back to the students with the knowledge needed to help their academic career here at SLU.

146	I've never used any real help from the library, so I am not a good person to ask.
147	The chat help is great, but the orientations I've had at the library have not been that helpful!
148	I have not used the services
149	All people that work at the library and answer phones have been consistently helpful. I attended a research information session with a librarian as part of a research methods class, which informed me of several services I had access to.
150	Need more awareness of services.
151	Our English class went to an instructional session about researching; it might have been helpful for some, but I didn't find the session too helpful since we covered this many times in high school.
152	I only did a couple of the above options but they were very helpful.
153	I didn't know these were options offered.
154	They are very quick to reply to emails and they are always willing to help students.
155	I didn't even know these services existed!!
156	Love the online help functions!
157	The lib is awesome!!!
158	I like the services in the Pius library. Also at the beginning of my first semester I was recommended to meet a librarian and know about the resources, that was very helpful to me.
159	Little pricey however I purchase my books online.
160	Pius Library is too small for the amount of traffic that it gets.
161	There are many papers that I am unable to access. I have no idea how to request that SLU library get the rights for this article. / I wish there was a "get it for me" service similar to the service available in other larger universities.
162	The research guides are amazing! I'm a senior and I didn't know they existed until this year. So so helpful and everyone needs to know they are available!
163	Great job with "Ask a Librarian". I was very impressed.
164	NA
165	The texting for where a book is located only works some of the time.
166	I like the feature where you can instant message the library to see what the hours are or whether or not it's open
167	Very helpful and courteous.
168	Have not used any but have heard of most.
169	The guides could be more clearly organized and made easier to access.
170	The research tutorials online could be more user friendly. They look really intimidating.
171	Every time I have used online chat to speak with a librarian, I was pleasantly surprised with the quickness of their response as well as their friendliness and willingness to help me find what I need. There have been times when their suggestions have been more helpful than others, but they always seem willing to do their best.
172	I have only consulted with Vatican Film Library and Rare Book Room librarians: I have found them to be exceedingly helpful.
173	The SLU librarians have been extremely helpful throughout my four years at SLU. I have met with a department librarian to help me find good research articles for a research paper, and that was extremely helpful. When I was abroad in Spain and trying to get an article (very close to my paper deadline) the librarians at SLU St. Louis were emailing me advice as to what I should do to get the articles in time. In this situation, the librarians were very conscious of the hours of operation of the SLU librarians who approve Illiad articles, especially considering the time change overseas. When I had other questions about Illiad, the SLU librarians have always given me their utmost attention to help me. I have really appreciated the SLU library services.

174	The librarian gave insightful info that I did not know the library offered
175	The librarian I saw was helpful, but she did not really understand my question, so it was hard to really get much out of it.
176	I think the research guides on the website are very helpful!
177	The librarians I have talked to are some of the most helpful individuals! They always point me in the right direction and have so much knowledge that I aspire to have.
178	Librarians are always willing to help find resources.
179	I don't really use the librarians unless I'm having difficulties finding a book.
180	I have only good experiences with library staff.
182	Really adamant about teaching us how to "do it ourselves". Hate this. You guys have a job for a reason. Sometimes I don't want to learn the library's unique system for a simple question. Just help me find the answer.
183	The librarian I worked with for a paper helped me find the exact topic of articles I was looking for. It saved me time and hassle for trying to look up articles randomly myself, where the librarian actually knew the database and knew the best way to get the info I needed.
184	Librarians that are readily available are very helpful for research and other projects.
185	LOVE YOUR TWITTER ACCOUNT. Consider writing buzzfeed articles. Can be instructional and informational, they're also more appealing to college students.
186	The staff of the library has been helpful when I needed it. I think they should promote the resources they have better though!
187	I do not know much about them and I work in a position in the Student Involvement Center where I probably should. So the SIC should either be notified of these programs or the library should advertise them more.
188	When I met with a librarian for a paper she did a wonderful job helping me.
189	just bringing more awareness about services the library offers would help. I only learned about services one time during my years at SLU, and that was in a freshman year english class. It seemed very helpful but was hard to carry over to my next classes.
190	Although I have never used in-person help, I have heard wonderful things about it!
191	I have done online instructional sessions for working with psychology databases that were extremely helpful. / I spend a lot of time studying in the library, but don't see librarians around often. I think students would reach out to librarians for more help if they saw them around more often.
192	N/A
193	Really great in person and text options. Though the library research guides on the web can be quite crazy.
194	When I visited with a librarian to help research material for a paper, it was a very good experience. She helped me gather a ton sources, in fact we got so much information I don't even remember using it all for the paper! I would totally meet with her again if I ever needed to.
195	I am pretty satisfied with my experience with the library. Thank you.
196	never used any of them

197	Most of the articles I need I have to order because they are not available
198	the librarians on the chat....they are always kind, professional, and honest
199	Whenever I've needed specific research help, the library and its staff have been there and have been very helpful and knowledgeable.
200	Never knew they existed.
201	I specifically met with the Engineering librarian and he was extremely helpful in familiarizing myself with the databases available.
202	The research guides are full of information although I don't know if there is much publicity directing people to this service.
203	N/A
204	I like the availability of having a librarian there to chat with me when I need help.
205	I have always had a good experience with the library staff and the facility. It's always clean and the librarians have been helpful and kind when I needed help because finding a book in the library is sometimes hard
206	Great when I need them!
207	I think that the library's website is very well organized. The workers and librarians have always been helpful to me with checking materials out.
208	The online chat with a librarian on the website is very beneficial. They helped me find books I couldn't locate on my own. Also, my English190 class went to an informational class taught by one of the librarians on how to use the library's database. This was very beneficial because of the number of times I've used databases since then.
209	I was very pleased to find that there was a new Ask a Librarian button; even more glad to find that it was very helpful for me to do so.
210	Librarians are super friendly.
211	The employees at the library seem to be very knowledgeable.
212	Any time I have needed help from librarians in person, they have been extremely helpful!
213	I've found the librarians very helpful both in instructional settings and in person. I didn't know about any of the other services.
214	The different methods of help available could maybe use more advertisement because there are a lot of great options.
215	NA
216	Finding books/articles for research was at first difficult for me, but after using it several times it has become much easier. The people that work at the desk are typically very knowledgeable, and if they're not they always know who to ask, which is awesome.
217	they were helpful for learning how to use pub med & ovid
218	They are busy and brief but helpful and efficient.
219	Finding articles with full text sucks cause after you narrow it down it still shows the articles you dont want to see in the databases.
220	N/A
221	I love the updates to Pius. / The websites could be a little easier to navigate.
222	Excellent services & staff!
223	Should advertise more... didn't even know most of them existed
224	Everything is awesome!
225	Meeting with "our" librarian is always very helpful! She is kind and so willing to answer my question even when I have asked them before.

226	wasn't aware of the "ask a librarian" button. that could be more advertised.
227	Please note that I define 'Text Help' as the option to send a call number to your phone via text after pulling it up on the library's catalog. If the questions refers to another service, then calculate my score as "never used/unaware". / / If I were not a graduate student who had attended a mandatory library orientation, I think I would have a hard time utilizing the librarian's services. They are often hidden away in screened offices and that reduces their visibility as a major component of the library experience. I understand that librarian assistance is much more visible when browsing the library websites, but you're only targeting those who use the web to find resources, which, granted, is most everyone. However, the librarian is removed from the physical space of the library at Pius and thus is removed from the student's studying experience. / / As for the visual exhibits, I appreciate them very much. When my brother was visiting, I made sure to bring him to the exhibit on Russian atheist propaganda, as that was my favorite. The exhibits are well constructed and executed. / / I also really appreciated the visit from the therapy dogs during finals last semester. It's a bit pandering to bring in 'therapy dogs' to undergrads who, let's face it; bring the stress upon themselves by procrastinating and putting too much energy into having a social life. Inviting agencies from the area to showcase their services and lightening the mood of the library during finals week was a nice touch, though!
228	More walk-in hours for things like research, studying, and paper review would be helpful. /
229	I think there needs to be a mandatory tutorial class for usage of library services
230	The research guides are great. I will more than likely take advantage of the library staff within this year as I gear up to start my dissertation research and writing.
231	I oftentimes forget how their service(s) can directly help me in my pursuits
232	I met with a research librarian for one of my papers and she helped me search databases and finds lots of information and research that I hadn't found before.
233	Online chatting with a librarian is super helpful and user-friendly. When I found out it existed, I was very happy about it, and it proved to have great benefit.
234	The librarians and student workers are very helpful when it comes to impromptu questions.
235	I just didn't know I could get so much help from librarians. Taking this survey is making me think that I could have had a much easier time finding resources...
236	The librarians have generally been polite and helpful when I have asked
237	Librarians are always nice and eager to help.
238	The checkout desk in particular has been very helpful
239	had a good experience with ask a librarian button
240	The services have been great but I do not agree with some of the library hours. I think it should be open later on friday night and on Saturday night. There are people who have classes on Saturday and Sunday that still need a quiet space but the library always closes early so there is no where for them to go.
241	The services are great and I'm aware of them, however for some specified fields like specific engineering courses (i.e. Fluid Dynamics), I don't know how qualified the librarians are for helping with that specific sort of subject, so I talk to professors instead. Maybe I would use the sources more if I knew more in depth about what the librarians can help with.
242	Whenever I've used the "Ask a Librarian" feature, I have always recieved a prompt and helpful response. For example, one time I was unable to access an e-book. The librarian could not help me, but sent my problem to another librarian. She got back to me within 12 hours and was able to resolve my issue. It was very helpful.
243	Any time I have scehduled something everyone has been super helpful! When I get lost and need help finding a book I also get great help!

244	Chat is my favorite. It's great to converse with a person in real time rather than sending e-mails back and forth. I rarely have a phone handy so I'm really glad you have this option.
245	I have only used the online library, but have been able to find everything i need. I LOVE the inter-library Illiad loans. I have never been without an article I needed.
246	All the services I have used have been very efficient and have led to a good experience with the library resources. I really enjoy working with the staff at the Pius Library and the Medical School Library. Medical School Librarians have been particularly helpful for finding research books and helping to fill out interlibrary loan requests to find the most up-to-date books relating to my topics!
247	The librarians are helpful if I have a question on using an electronic resource or finding a book. But I have never thought to use a librarian for help on a paper.
248	I would definitely use the librarians but I wouldn't know in what situations I could ask them for help.
249	Sarah the business librarian was very helpful when I chatted with her online before!
250	The special collections librarians in the VFL and Rare books are incredibly helpful.
251	I had a library orientation class with my first Master's Degree. I found it helpful. I like doing research independently, so the orientation that gave me the resource knowledge to build my own research processes was useful.
252	The research guides were very easy to use.
253	I use the writing center often but that is really the only person service I use. They are very helpful, and no matter what stage my paper is in they help give me suggestions for improvement.
254	I feel like many people don't know about some of the features of the library, especially the sessions by librarians, or the phoning or emailing or texting for help, because it's not advertised, and because I'm not clear on what is appropriate to come to a librarian for. Otherwise, I've always found the librarians to be a friendly but not very useful aid.
255	I like how quiet it is and how there is almost always a computer available. I hate it when people start talking under the GIANT sign that says quiet zone. Please employ a professional "shusher" so that no one can talk without leaving the quiet zone. :)
256	The librarians are super nice and helpful. I really like the chat librarian option.
257	The librarians are really informative and always willing to help locate a book / article and have assisted me with the online databases before - all of these services have been unscheduled and very helpful.
258	Good
259	While Martha Allen and Ron Crown have always been extremely helpful to me, a couple of times I have had negative experiences with librarians at the front desk. Kegan Allen was quite rude to me over the phone on one occasion, and Chris Smentkowski gruff in person.
260	Consulting the department librarians on papers, especially on research papers is extremely helpful with not only finding sources, but finiding sources that contribute greatly to your understanding of the topic.
261	I didn't know most of these opportunities were available, so maybe find a way to make it more publicized- these are great options!
262	A librarian taught me how to use EndNote and use MeSH searches on PubMed and it has helped me tremendously in my masters program!
263	Workers friendly and knowledgeable at med school library
264	I found the SLU web library to be very efficient. Inter library articles are received very quickly.
265	The availability of many resources, particularly those of guiding via a librarian, aren't advertised often or realized ubiquitously by the students.
266	It's okay, the help I mean. Normal.

267	All services have been very supportive and helpful, resources and personnel are great. / Most often use e-journal links, ILL, database and research guide pages / /
268	All of my experiences with online library resources have been positive. The librarian chat was most helpful for research assistance; the convenience & efficiency of the chat resource was exceptional.
269	All of my experiences with library staff have been very positive.
270	its really great the library offers these services
271	All of my experiences with librarians has been very helpful and professional. Librarians were very knowledgable and showed sincere compasion about assisting to their fullest protential.
272	The medical library librarians are very friendly and patient.
273	The librarian are very helpful. They tried their best to assist and answer any question one has
274	The full-time library staff is helpful. In general, I believe the library has great services! I have used it a lot to great profit in my research! The addition of TLG to the online resources was a great help to me. / / There have been a few times where returned books were not listed as returned, and using chat was unable to resolve my inquiry, but these were eventually worked out. / / I have one suggestion for improvement of the (already quite good) services. It really would be nice to raise some of the limits (specifically, the number of Mobius check-outs, and the number of books placed on hold) for graduate/PhD students. If this has to be a special request process, that would be fine, but I have found that I've needed them raised. The reason is because it is often the case that when you are preparing to write a seminar paper, article, or dissertation, you often know immediately that you need to secure dozens and dozens of resources all at once. I have had more than a few cases where I've needed more than ten Mobius books. / /
275	I really haven't used any of the services and so have no valuable input.
276	resources are available,
277	The provided services have been very useful when needed. Simply having them available offers me the comfort of knowing I always have access to some sort of assistance.
278	The one session I had was a part of a class and very helpful.
279	unable to answer my questions properly, and even blame me for not asking the questions clearly.
280	I feel that these services aren't promoted enough.
281	Ron Crown is amazing.
282	new furniture
283	N/A
284	In my experience the librarians don't want to help out and when they do they make a big fuss over it.
285	The study rooms need to be renovated. Especially on floor 4. They often have obscene, inappropriate comments. they are small, and the holes in many of them make one feel disoriented. Plus, the ventilation in the room sounds annoying. Otherwise, all else seems good.
286	person at the desk - w/e desk, is always very helpful.
287	The "chat with a librarian" feature was very beneficial when I was looking to find a book about a research topic that I was unable to locate. Thumbs up!
288	I have not utilized the majority of the services. My courses do not require much of a novel based paper therefore do not usually use the library. What I have done with it has been helpful and positive.
289	I have never used most of the services, so I'd rather not comment.
290	My experiences have been great
291	The chat feature is excellent - perfect for students used to quick response time.
292	I've had only positive experiences wit h the SLU Libraries.

293	Research guide for my field of study - Social Work - really useful and easy to use. I highly recommend it, and go to it first when I am researching a topic.
294	Services I have used seem fine.
295	N/a
296	somehow some of survices are not seem useful
297	The help of a librarian without any scheduling was amazing. They do everything they can to make sure you leave with more information than you had when you walked in. It is very refreshing and reliable.
298	Everyone is doing a great job.
299	Very good services
300	The library is the best. I am proud to be a student worker here.
301	none
302	I feel the library staff has always been very helpfull.
303	Librarians on campus are super helpful!
304	Everything is very resourceful and useful.
305	i think its fine.
306	I have not used them once in 3.75 semesters.
307	When I left the page that I had been looking at to go to another page within the library website, I lost the connection to the librarian that was helping me at the time and could not get back with her.
308	Legalize It!
309	n/a
310	People are generally helpful. Possibly more librarians who know about the online stuff would be useful.
311	n/a
312	great resources. i like that they are always improving
313	The reference librarians really do know about the subjects in which they are in charge of, and when called upon, they always produce fruitful articles and other knowledge that can be used.
314	always very understanding and efficient
315	N/A
316	I have not used them, but the library staff always seems friendly.
317	N/A
318	Very helpful. Prompt response
319	when sara taught a segment of our class on accessing documents, it was very helpful and informative
320	I worked with Mary Krieger to conduct comprehensive literature searches of several databases in order to locate publications for two integrative reviews I have written. The experience was very helpful. I would not have obtained all of the iterature if I had not worked with Mary.
321	I love the Pius staff!
322	I have found the Rare Books Department to be a wonderful resource as a person willing to help and passionate about the materials found there.
323	The library is one of my favorite resources. The online books and e-journal article linker are fantastic resources!
324	STreamlined online resources is great. The interlibrary illiad system is fantastic
325	The librarians seem to be extremely helpful, but the website is overwhelming and confusing. Sometimes it is hard to know what resources are available to me.

326	N/A
327	The librarians are very friendly
328	I visit plus the most because most of my classes are on the main campus. I love the new renovations, they open the library up a lot better on the lower level.
329	It has been very helpful to have a librarian's help at 12 at night when trying to find an article for a paper
330	actually i do not know how to renew the book online right now. there is no easy instructure in website to let me know how to renew.
331	Employees at the Medical Library have always been very helpful.
332	great services
333	I just haven't had to take classes yet that would require me to use the services but it is nice knowing that they are there.
334	Didn't know about some of the services but I assume that sort of information is freely available online and I never paid close enough attention. The librarians I have spoken with have always been helpful, knowledgable and pleasant. I would probably never have thought to ask a librarian for help with a research project or paper, I tend to do the work without assistance beyond a professor.
335	I know there is help available from librarians, it just seems unclear on what help they actually provide
336	The one time I asked a librarian for help finding a book, all she kept talking about was how she was late for a meeting because she was helping me (and this was a librarian, not a student worker). There were other workers available to help, and I was very upfront with what I needed help finding, but despite this I was made to feel as if it was MY fault that she was late for the meeting, when it is not my job to know her schedule, nor did I force her to be the one to help. / / I recognize this is not an accurate representation of the library or its workers in general, and probably not even normal behavior for the librarian in question (it seemed to be a somewhat important meeting that she was worried about), but nonetheless, it has crossed my mind every time since that I've considered requesting help finding something.
337	Nothing bad at all if anything the teachers in our classes need to advertise the library more often because I was only told in English 150-190 and Psych 101
338	na
339	Library workers helpful with call numbers/floors
340	It's all good!
341	none because i do not have an opinion because I've never was aware
342	The designated libralian really great and ready to help me with my proposal.
343	my overall experiences have helped me in countless projects and I am so thankful for all that Pius and its staff have done for me
344	The online librarian ws prompt and helpful. /
